Learn how pro-active adults are creating their own cohousing neighborhoods that balance private homes with friendly community living and are a great place for empty-nesters and people looking toward their longer-term future.

Katie will discuss the process of developing Wolf Creek Lodge, a new neighborhood currently under construction in the foothill town of Grass Valley, and Mountain View Cohousing, a new Silicon Valley neighborhood awaiting city approval to begin building. Discover the significant differences between cohousing and other living arrangements.
